Ideas:

When writing a rhyming poem, try and rhyme lines with a similar ending sound. But remember, a poem is whatever you want it to be, it doesn't have to rhyme. Choose a theme, close your eyes and use your imagination. Why not play a game with your friends or family and let each person write a line or a verse.

Subjects to write about:

- Rules School
- Building Arguments
- Creating Sports
- Friends Text Messaging

Example

Here is an example of a Digger poem - have a go at finishing it off or make up your own.

Use the blank poetry blocks (on the next page) to write your own words in, cut them out and stick them down as your poem on a blank sheet of paper - you could also use your weekly spellings or some of the other words provided over the next few pages!

Digger Poem

Dig, Dig, Dump
 Dig, Dig, Dump
 Dig, Dig, Dump
 Dig, Dig, Dump

My Yellow JCB Digger
 Works All Day In The Sand,
 Sometimes My Friends
 Come To Lend A Hand,

Dig, Dig, Dump
 Dig, Dig, Dump
 Dig, Dig, Dump
 Dig, Dig, Dump

The Buckets Reach
 High Onto The Sky,
 Loading Sand, Mixing Water
 Into A Huge, Messy, Mudpie
